

Victorian Parlor Games

Judith Krall-Russo, Food Historian

Tuesday, December 13, 2011
2 p.m.

Sponsored by The Friends of the Brick Library

The Victorians loved to entertain, and in the 19th century people gathered in homes for entertainment and played parlor or board games for recreation. Learn some old-fashioned games such as, Lookabout, Change Seats! and Pass the Slipper. Be prepared to play and have fun! Light refreshment will be served.
