

New York Times Digital Access – Remote Access (outside the library)

Please note: you must start from our website on an internet browser (Chrome, Safari, Firefox, etc.), not the OCL app

1. From our Digital Materials page, <http://theoceancountylibrary.org/downloads>, click on “Remote Access” under New York Times:

	Audiobooks	eBooks	eCourses	Magazines	Newspapers	Streaming Music	Streaming Video
Access Video Just for Kids							✓
Access Video On Demand							✓
Creativebug			✓
EBSCO eBooks		✓
Flipster				✓
Freegal: 24 hour streaming music	✓					✓
hoopla*	✓	✓				✓	✓
Kanopy							✓
New York Times In-library Access Remote Access					✓

OR from our Databases page, http://theoceancountylibrary.org/researchinfo/resources_all.htm, search for New York Times Digital Access, and then select “Access from Home”:

New York Times Digital Access

NYTimes.com is a multiplatform news resource that provides unlimited access to New York Times content, including breaking news, multimedia, opinion, blogs, videos, and more. Access is available inside all library locations without restriction, while a valid OCL library card is required for remote access. This database is provided through funding from the Ocean County Library.

2. You will be prompted to enter your library barcode and PIN.

Menu

OCEAN COUNTY LIBRARY SYSTEM

Please enter your barcode and password

Barcode:

Password:

Forgot your password?

Don't forget to log out...

Please contact your local branch for assistance if you don't know/can't remember your PIN number or if you're prevented from logging in (your library card registration may have expired, or there may be fines in excess of $25 on your card).

3. A box will pop up with an alphanumeric code. Click on "Redeem."

Enjoy a special offer from The New York Times.

Redeem your code for digital access to The New York Times.

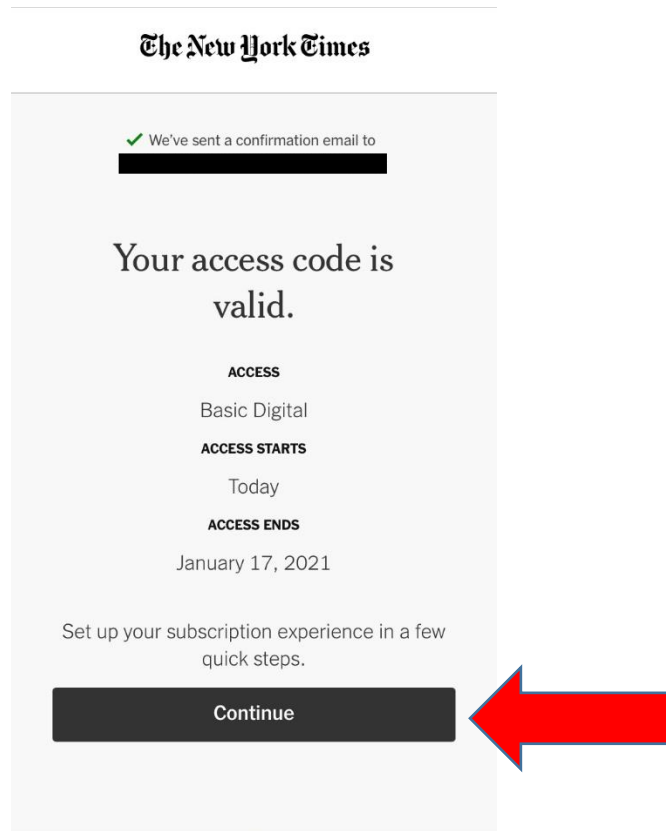

No credit card is required to redeem your code. To activate your access, you'll need to log in or register first. Not applicable for existing digital or home delivery subscribers.

4. You will be prompted to create an account by entering your email address and creating a password (or click on “Log in” at the bottom if you already have an account) or using an existing Google, Facebook, or Apple account:

The screenshot shows the account creation interface for myaccount.nytimes.com. At the top, the browser address bar displays the URL. Below it, the heading "Create your free account" is centered. Three large buttons are stacked vertically, each with a social media icon and the text "Continue with [Service]": "Continue with Google" (Google logo), "Continue with Facebook" (Facebook logo), and "Continue with Apple" (Apple logo). Below these is a separator line with the text "Or use your email". Underneath, there are two input fields: "Email Address" and "Password". The password field includes a "Show" button on the right. A checked checkbox is followed by the text: "You agree to receive updates and offers from The Times. You may opt out anytime." Below this is a line of text: "By creating an account, you agree to the Terms of Service and acknowledge our Privacy Policy." At the bottom of the form is a large black button with the text "Create Account". Below the button, the text reads: "Already have a Times account? Log in".

be sure to uncheck the
“You agree to receive updates and offers from the Times box”
if you don’t want to receive emails!

5. Once you log in, your code should be valid; click “continue” to proceed to the home page. Your redemption code will be good for a 24-hour period.

If you leave your session and want to return at a later time during the 24-hour period, you can't go back in the same way with the same email address. You have to go to the email sent by the NYT and click on a link to regain access to the newspaper.